The Digital Workplace in Action

A machine supplier implemented Kintone, an all-in-one workplace platform, to centralise and speed up their sales and IT processes across employees and offices, increase productivity and improve the customer experience.

Using this all-in-one workplace platform, the company was able to convert manual and paper-based tasks containing large amounts of data into automated spreadsheets and databases.

This led to higher sales volume while giving them the tools to connect with customers faster and provide better service.
